News Around Campus

Around the World in Lally Room 032

This semester, The College of Saint Rose welcomes 15 teachers from Africa, Asia and South America to experience American life on campus and beyond. Ranging from 25 to 50 years old, the educators each teach secondary school English. Not only do they speak, read and write the language as well as most Americans, but their commitment to their profession appears to be universal.

Alumni Weekend: Reunion 2013 Registration Opens in Early April

Alumni Weekend: Reunion 2013 is just around the corner! The Saint Rose Alumni Association will honor all alumni with graduation years ending in '3' or '8', but all alumni, no matter your graduation year, are welcome to attend!

A tentative schedule of events can be found at www.strose.edu/reunion.

Registration opens in early April online and via the events brochure hitting mailboxes at that time! We hope to see you there! Contact alumni@strose.edu for more information.

The Harlem Shake Takes Saint Rose by Storm!

"The College of Saint Rose does many things to keep up with the times and entice students to enroll. Saint Rose has put up new buildings, given greater support for students through clubs like Identity, updated their equipment, and even built an entire sports arena. The thing I like most, however, is their ability to keep up with the times and get involved in crazes" says Regina Iannizzotto, Opinion Editor for The Saint Rose Chronicle. Tools for Effective Networking

Developing new professional relationships and maintaining existing relationships are important aspects of your career development. Technology and social media have provided us with incredible tools to supplement (but not replace) our personal networking capabilities.

LinkedIn's Alumni Tool (log in with your LinkedIn user name and password) gathers profile information from over 200 million LinkedIn members and allows you to filter and sort the results. Start by searching alumni from The College of Saint Rose during your years of study to see their: geographic locations, most common places of employment, most common fields/industries, Saint Rose programs/majors, and most common skills by industry. You can use this information to understand the career paths of fellow graduates, develop and plan your own career path, and establish new contacts in your fields of interest!

Career Advisory Network (C.A.N.) can be accessed by logging into The College of Saint Rose eCareerCenter. C.A.N. is the Career Center's very own alumni networking tool and is a searchable database of over 140 professional alumni and friends of the college who have made themselves available to provide information and advice to current students and alumni. View alumni profiles whose careers and professional activities are of interest to you, and contact them by e-mail to arrange informational interviews. If you are interested in becoming a member of the Career Advisory Network to assist students and other professionals, contact career@strose.edu to learn more.
